

Sophie Inman

Scientist, AstraZeneca, United Kingdom

Sophie works in the Characterisation team in Analytical Sciences in Biopharmaceutical Development at AstraZeneca focussing on the application of mass spectrometry to understanding proteins and their post-translational modifications. Prior to joining AZ Sophie did her PhD at Edinburgh University utilising FT-ICR to investigate protein redox chemistry. She then worked at LGC using mass spectrometry for qualitative and quantitative analysis of small molecules and proteins.