Dr Katherine Donegan is Head of Epidemiology within the Safety and Surveillance division of the MHRA, the UK medicines regulator. She has been with the Agency since 2010 following time with the UK Medical Research Council Clinical Trials Unit working in observational and interventional HIV treatment studies. She now leads the MHRA's epidemiology team working closely with partners across the Agency and externally to advise on the value of observational studies and real world evidence and to develop and implement strategy on the use of real world data to support regulation. She has particular interests in the use of RWE to support vaccines safety and is a member of the WHO Global Advisory Committee on Vaccine Safety (GACVS).
